The University of Campinas, UNICAMP, through the Offices of the Vice-President for Graduate Studies and the Vice-President for Research, hereby publishes this call for proposals for a cooperative exchange program with the

The aims of this program include the identification of opportunities for cooperation and collaboration between both universities in all areas of academic research and greater internationalization of the University of Campinas.

The call also seeks to create the conditions for an initial exchange program between researchers at both institutions, with the expectation that this can be continued through the regular funding lines available from federal and state agencies. It is also intended to help graduate programs become more internationalized, whether as a result of faculty and researchers from other countries taking part in research and graduate subjects at Unicamp or faculty and doctoral students spending time at the partner institution.

The doctoral student, postdoctoral student or researcher from the BROWN faculty member’s research group must stay with the Unicamp research group or the host laboratory between one (01) and two (02) months to provide support for research activities and guidance for graduate students or to complement the BROWN faculty member’s graduate teaching and research activities.

This call also covers funding for one Unicamp (01) faculty member or researcher affiliated with a graduate program at Unicamp and one doctoral student under the supervision of this faculty member or researcher or working with their research group to spend time with the BROWN partner research group.

The doctoral student under the Unicamp faculty member’s supervision or affiliated with the faculty member’s research group must spend between one (01) and two (02) months with the BROWN faculty member’s research group.

The work plan is expected to include a set of activities, such as seminars, at which BROWN researchers give presentations on their research.
